

DDD Wales, TechHub Swansea
221 High Street
SA1 1NW

24th March 2018

DDD Wales is a free one-day technical event for developers. This is the first DDD Wales and expects to have 120+ attendees, with more on the waiting list. The goal of DDD Wales is to provide free technical education, relationship development, networking and community involvement.

DDD conferences started in 2005, with the first being in Reading at Microsoft's TVP campus. Since then DDD conferences have been established in all different countries including United Kingdom, Scotland, Ireland and even Australia. We are pleased to announce this will be our first DDD Wales and we hope you can be part of this too.

Attendees come from a variety of locations throughout the UK and overseas with many making a full weekend of it.

Sponsorship

Sponsorship is key to a successful DDD Wales, as it is a free, non-profit event, run entirely by volunteers.

We are currently seeking sponsors to help add to the event and to keep it free, and open to all. By sponsoring DDD Wales allows you to target this broad audience and get out your message, products, opportunities and services.

Unless specified, your money goes towards all the costs incurred in running this event. Sponsors will be required to pay directly to a specified supplier; this will be arranged by a member of the DDD Wales sponsor organisers.
